

Japanese Checked South of Efogi; Casualties Heavy

Bitter Fighting in Mountains of New Guinea Continues

American Colored Troops Believed in Action with Australians

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Friday, Sept. 11 (P)—The Japanese were temporarily checked yesterday in the mountains south of Efogi in their overland drive toward Port Moresby, but bitter fighting is continuing with heavy casualties on both sides, Allied headquarters announced today.

The communiqué indicated that the Allied ground defenders aided by Allied planes, had stiffened their resistance since yesterday, when the invaders were reported to have pushed through the Owen Stanley mountain range to filter down the south slope toward Port Moresby, main allied base in New Guinea.

The communiqué said:

Latest Communiqué

"Northwestern sector: activity limited to reconnaissance.

"Northeastern sector: Owen Stanley area: Bitter fighting continues with casualties reported heavy on both sides. The enemy yesterday made no further progress in the area.

"Allied attack bombers continue to harass the enemy lines of supplies.

"Lee and Salamaua: Enemy patrol activity continues south of Mila."

The probability that an allied counter-attack was in the making for the enemy who had negotiated the difficult Owen Stanley range was found in the words of Gen. MacArthur, addressed to United States troops.

He advised the Americans never to let the Japanese attack, but to make it a fundamental principle to attack first whatever their position might be.

Jap Force Not Large

The size of the Japanese force on the south slopes of the mountains nearing the Allied base was not disclosed, but it was not believed large. Moreover, the foe probably had only light equipment due to the difficulty in transporting tanks and heavy guns through the narrow, jungle-clad mountain passes.

Australian troops predominated among the Allied forces opposing the Japanese, although an unspecified number of American service troops including negroes are based on Port Moresby. The tide of the battle was not disclosed. Allied fighters and bombers roared endlessly into the attack.

The supply problem of both sides was aggravated by equatorial rains which made the inadequate dirt roads and trails boggy. Headquarters said the fighting was under conditions of "extraordinary hardship and difficulty" after the Allied positions beyond the mountain summits had been outflanked. The fighting centered around the thatched village of Myola, 4,600 feet above sea level.

The Japanese were employing their familiar infiltration tactics that routed the British in Malaya and Burma.

Hagerstown Population Estimated at 40,000

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 10 (P)—The newly issued 1942-43 Hagerstown directory places the city's population at approximately 40,000 persons.

Of this number, the directory said, an estimated ninety-seven per cent were American born. Hagerstown's population in the 1940 census was 32,446.

Gas Rationing For Nation Is Urged by Baruch

Plan To Save Rubber Meets with FDR's Approval

Proposals Will Greatly Curtail Use of Many Private Cars

By RICHARD L. TURNER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (P)—The Baruch committee proposed and President Roosevelt immediately approved today the imposition of nationwide gasoline rationing and other rigid civilian motoring restrictions to keep a "dangerous" rubber shortage from producing "both a military and civilian collapse."

Asserting that "the naked facts present a warning" which the country dare not ignore, that the choice is "discomfort or defeat," the committee recommended:

A nation-wide speed limit of thirty-five miles per hour.

Reduction of the average annual mileage per car to 5,000, with the mileage of the "less essential drivers" cut far below that point.

The allocation of rubber and thiomol (a substitute) to maintain essential civilian driving by recapping tires and making new ones.

Compulsory periodic tire inspection.

A voluntary program of rubber conservation, until these controls can be established.

Latest Program

Nationwide application of all restrictions.

Bluntly criticizing administration of the rubber program for "overlapping and confusing authority," insufficient reliable upon technical advisors, and procedures "bordering on the chaotic," the committee recommended the creation of a single rubber administrator to have complete charge of the program under the chairman of the War Production Board.

"One example of inexplicable administration that we can mention," it said, "is the failure to obtain detailed technical information concerning the experience of Soviet Russia in making synthetic rubber.

Russia Makes Rubber

"Russia has been manufacturing synthetic rubber successfully for more than ten years. Had the offer of the Soviet government made in February to exchange full information been accepted, it is conceivable that plants for producing synthetic rubber by the Russian processes might well be on the way to completion."

It found that the nation must rely upon the production of synthetic rubber, and upon the uncertainties of creating in a few months an industry which ordinarily could be established only in a dozen years, for rubber for both military and civilian uses.

Russian Planes Reach Environs Of Berlin Proper

Germany Admits Reds Also Attack Hungarian Capital

LONDON, Sept. 10 (P)—The Germans acknowledged today that Russian planes penetrated again to the environs of Berlin last night and attacked Budapest, the Hungarian capital, the second time within a week in raids which spread alarm over great Nazi-held areas.

After a period of Axis confusion during which the Budapest attackers were identified as Russian, then English but finally were named definitely as Russians, the Germans admitted Soviet bombers came close to the heart of Berlin, too.

The official DNB news agency said the Russians "flew over the outskirts of greater Berlin last night" and added that "they did not drop any bombs in the center of the city"—apparently meaning, by inference, that the attacks were concentrated on supposedly safe German industries on the fringes of the capital, far from the Rhineland targets of the R.A.F.

The German high command, restraining from detailed accounts of the somewhat mysterious Russian forays of last night, dismissed the raids on Eastern Germany as "harrassing flights" and DNB called them "ineffective nuisance raids."

The high Command told of some damage inflicted by interdictaries dropped from British planes on western Germany in daylight yesterday and again last night, but the R.A.F. was in a comparative lull.

Both the Russian and British maintained silence throughout the day on the alarms spread by Allied planes last night over large parts of Europe as noted by abrupt radio shutdowns in Paris and old Czechoslovakia as well as Berlin, Budapest and elsewhere.

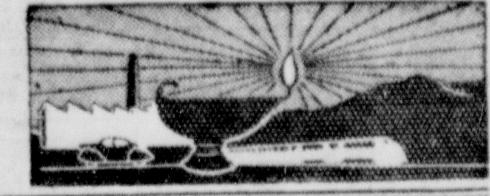

"There are a lot of problems to be solved, but for the first time I think we may confidently look for an early solution."

Major General Says Reds Gave U. S. Six Months To Prepare

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10 (P)—Major General Milton Milton A. Reckord declared tonight that "millions of silent dead and wounded in Russia are eloquent testimony that Russia has made the path to victory easier for us."

Speaking at a "tribute to Russia" pageant climaxing the city's campaign for Baltimore's quota of the $6,000,000 national fund to provide Russia with medical supplies, the commanding general of the third service command said:

O'Connor Signs Death Warrants for Three

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 10 (P)—Governor O'Connor signed death warrants today for three convicted negro slayers and commuted the sentence of a fourth originally sentenced to hang last July 24, to life imprisonment.

Warrants were signed for Freeman Holton, Frank Williams and Wilbur Jackson, all of Baltimore, convicted of the 1941 slaying of Louis Pertney, East Baltimore motion picture theater owner. October 2 was set by O'Connor as the execution date.

Miss Verda Smith had charge of the lesson, which was on "Group Medical Care."

The next meeting will be October 1 at the home of Mrs. Otto O. Feaster at which time the election of officers for the ensuing year will be held. Sixteen attended the September meeting.

Overtime Pay Will Be Given Attendants In Mental Hospitals

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 10 (P)—Overtime pay, already being received by attendants at state mental hospitals working longer than their regular hours, has been arranged also for attendants at state tuberculosis sanatoriums, Governor O'Connor announced today.

O'Connor recently issued instructions to the Board of Mental Hygiene to pay overtime to attendants in mental hospitals where superintendents found it necessary for their employees to work more than their regular periods.

The decision to include the four Salsburgs, Mt. Wilson, Salsburg and Henryton—followed a report to the Public Works Board by Dr. Victor F. Cullen, superintendent of the institutions, on the difficulty of hiring enough attendants for the hospital.

The governor said "the utmost care would be exercised to insure the restriction" of overtime pay to the attendants, who are in the lowest paid brackets.

Under the arrangements in effect at the mental hospitals, the superintendents certify to the need for the attendants working overtime and the over-payment is at the same rate as the regular employment scale of the attendants.

Harman Man Killed in Army Plane Wreck

CLARKSDALE, Miss., Sept. 10 (P)—Estin R. Teter, Jr., of Harman, W. Va., and another aviation cadet were killed when their plane exploded in mid-air yesterday, according to officials reported.

Baltimore Seeks

Meanwhile, Glenn L. Martin, head of the aircraft company bearing his name, urged Baltimore county school officials to start two shifts of schools in areas heavily populated with defense workers as a means of overcoming lack of adequate school facilities.

Martin Workers May Teach

Martin further offered to search out persons in his own organization who would be qualified to teach and who would lend their services to the county, and said the USO center at Aero Acres could be used to take care of overflow students.

Martin made his statement after John Lewis, of the business department of Baltimore county city schools, and Cooper said hundreds of children could not attend schools because of lack of facilities.

Lewis said several hundred children were staying home because federal authorities had not reached a decision on whether or not to allow expenditure of $11,000 for school buses.

Lewis said that in the Fairfield-Curtis Bay section the increase in war workers was creating a situation in which additional school space would be required.

Failure of the federal government to make possible construction of a $350,000 building planned in Armistead Gardens created the original bottleneck there, Lewis charged.

Adrenalin Found To Be Antidote To Overcome High Blood Pressure

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 10 (P)—A discovery that Adrenalin, the human body's quick fighting hormone, is easily converted into an antidote for high blood pressure, was reported today to the American Chemical Society.

The report was by Doctors K. A. Oster and Harry Sabotka, Mt. Sinai hospital, New York. Adrenalin comes from the Adrenal glands. During fear, anger, fighting or anything requiring quick energy, the hormone is released into the blood. It not only raises energy but increases blood pressure temporarily.

An early chemical reaction turns this Adrenalin, in test tubes, into a dark red powder known as adrenochrome. The latter reduces high blood pressure. This ability had been overlooked by other investigators who tried the red powder only on normal blood pressure. It has no effect on normal pressure.

It is not in the least poisonous. It can be synthesized. A present drawback is difficulty to make it keep long. The Mt. Sinai experiments were done on dogs and rats. Dogs' blood pressure are similar to humans. Dogs dropped from pressures of 180 down to 120, normal, in two to twenty-four hours. The pressures in animals remained normal as long as the antidote was given. Three grains were enough for a dog, and much less for a rat. The remedy is injected into the bloodstream or into muscles.

Human beings have not been tried, but the discovery came from observing that humans with high blood pressures had a blood chemical that resembles Adrenalin, and is known chemically as a precursor of Adrenalin. The altered Adrenalin has a chemical structure somewhat like vitamin K, whose effect is to stop or retard excessive bleeding.

Problem for Taxpayers

In combination with the five percent "victory" tax adopted yesterday on gross income in excess of $624, the proposed new income rates present a formidable financial challenge to most taxpayers.

Where a married man with two dependents and a $3,000 annual income would owe $58 under present law, the House raised his liability to $172 and the Senate to $275.

The Senate committee approved the House exemptions of $1,200 for married persons and $500 for single persons (compared with $1,500 and $750 under present law).

The committee also ratified the House action in raising the normal tax on individuals from four percent to six per cent.

of our mechanized army would be jeopardized."

Turning to the question of civilian motoring, the committee reported that tires on present cars are wearing away at a rate eight times greater than that at which they are being replaced.

"If this rate continues," it added, "by far the larger number of cars will be off the road next year and in 1944 there will be an all but complete collapse of the 27,000,000 passenger cars in America."

"We are faced with uncertainties as to demand; with grave insecurity as to supply. Therefore, this committee conceives its first duty to be the maintenance of a rubber reserve that will keep our armed forces fighting and our essential civilian wheels turning. This can best be done by 'bullying through' the present gigantic synthetic program and by safeguarding jealously every ounce of rubber in the country."

The committee also offered a series of recommendations to govern the development of the synthetic industry, keep its component parts in balance, and prepare for all possible future contingencies.

The committee was composed of Bernard M. Baruch as chairman, and Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, and Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It was appointed by Mr. Roosevelt on August 6, with an assertion that its findings would guide the future treatment of the rubber problem.

Praising its work, Mr. Roosevelt promptly approved its recommendations today and said they would be made effective "as rapidly as arrangements can be made." He called the report "excellent" and said "the government owes a debt of gratitude to the committee members for the time, labor and efficient handling of this most important work."

The report was transmitted to Congress.

Rubber Is Weapon of War

"Let there be no doubt that only actual needs, not fancied wants, can, or should, be satisfied. To dissipate our stocks of rubber is to destroy one of our chief weapons of war. We want the choice: discomfort or defeat. There is no middle course."

Hence, it added, the proposed restrictions on civilian driving.

"Gas rationing is the only way of saving rubber," it continued. "Every way of avoiding this method was explored, but it was to be inescapable. This must be kept in mind: the limitation in the use of gasoline is not due to shortage of that commodity—it is wholly a measure of rubber saving. That is why the restrictions is to be nation-wide. Any localized measure would be unfair and futile."

The "naked facts" to which the report referred were that there was not enough rubber to cover the nation's military needs between the present and the close of 1943—that in fact there was a deficit of 211,000 tons which must be made up before a single ounce could go to civilian motorists.

If the hopes behind the synthetic program materialize production of Buna S and Neoprene, the two synthetics upon which the program must rest, will fulfill reasonable expectancy, it may be possible to lessen this curtailment before the end of 1943. But until then, any relaxation is a service to the enemy.

Expanding its recommendation that the average drivers annual mileage be cut to 5,000, the committee said this would be the reduction of about twenty-five percent. The limitation did not mean, it added, that every motorist would be permitted to drive 5,000 miles. The mileage of less-essential motoring must be reduced far below that figure to permit a greater mileage for more essential drivers. The proper distribution of mileage, it added, should be left to responsible governmental agencies.

"It should also be stated that, in the committee's judgment," the report continued, "even this indicated curtailment of driving will be insufficient to meet the situation unless there is an intensification of such conservation measures as car pooling and sharing of rides and the purchase by the government of extra tires and spares from persons who do not need them for war workers and others who do need them."

425,000 Tons Needed

"With 425,000 tons we should have a margin of safety, a slight one, to be sure, perhaps 100,000 tons above necessary inventories for ourselves and our Allies—for the front. With only 200,000 tons of Buna S produced, our supplies would be exhausted. The successful operation

Aged Couple Commit Suicide with Pair Of Homemade Guns

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (P)—After a last walk in their garden, after their last talk in fifty years together, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Podulinski sat down quietly before two home-made guns and Joseph lit the fuses in the waiting weapons.

They were eager for death, but the guns were stubborn. Half a dozen times Joseph struck matches in the darkness of the tool shed last night where he had built the guns, and half a dozen times the fuses sputtered out. Perhaps his hands were trembling.

But at last the guns fired. Joseph Podulinski, 71, and his wife, Victoria, 68, fell forward into death side by side, with joined hands. They had been sitting in chairs opposite the guns, which were held by a vase to a work bench.

Police found the burnt matches, the guns made from iron pipe loaded with powder, and a note written in Polish, signed by Joseph.

"I am so ill, I can no longer eat, smoke or drink the things I want to go on alone," the note said. "Victoria doesn't want to go on alone."

And the note told also of their farewells stroll through the flower garden on the lawn at Stapleton, Staten Island, waiting for nightfall.

Committee Cuts

He still held to his belief that a proposed tax on individual spending which the Senate committee rejected, was the best method to be adopted and "would furnish a strong deterrent to spending money."

"We (the government) are going to spend $80,000,000,000 this fiscal year," he said, "and we simply must raise more money."

Morgenthau added that if such a spending tax proposal were not adopted in the pending revenue measure the treasury would have to ask next year for substantially the same thing.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) said today's action virtually wound up the work on individual income tax sections of the new revenue bill. No action has been taken on President Roosevelt's recommendation that maximum individual incomes be limited to $25,000 a year after payment of taxes.

The proper distribution of mileage, it added, should be left to responsible governmental agencies.

"It should also be stated that, in the committee's judgment," the report continued, "even this indicated curtailment of driving will be insufficient to meet the situation unless there is an intensification of such conservation measures as car pooling and sharing of rides and the purchase by the government of extra tires and spares from persons who do not need them for war workers and others who do need them."

At Stalingrad the decisive stages of the battle were approaching as the Germans poured in more troops, more tanks, more planes. Tremendous clashes were reported in many parts of this sector, and the Nazi ability to draw upon reserves was permitting continuous assault on the Red army defenders.

Nursery Schools Benefit Mothers Doing War Work

Trained Teachers Hard To Find but Colleges Are Co-operating

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
In many defense areas the public nursery school has been a great protection to young children and their mothers in war industries. Recently Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission announced that "thousands more mothers in war industries is being made possible by establishment of new war nursery schools." Also from the Works Progress Administration comes the announcement that "approximately 50,000 additional children will be cared for while mothers take their places in war production lines."

As new nursery schools open under the wartime program, mothers in increasing numbers are being freed to go into bomber plants, munition works and other production activities.

The school operates on a six-hour day and, in some cases for eight, ten, twelve and even fourteen hours a day.

Need of Trained Teachers

For these rapidly growing schools trained teachers are hard to find (a good field for young women to enter for training). Universities and colleges are co-operating with WPA staffs in conducting training courses for workers selected to operate the schools.

Let us hope good standards of training and operating of these schools will be required. It is true that during the depression emergency, nursery schools conducted by the WPA were generally on a high plane, thanks to the good leadership in this special field.

Studies of work productivity made by industry also reveal that those women whose children are cared for make a greater contribution to the war effort because they approach their work free from worry about their children. The women who operate these nursery schools will relieve many times their number of other women for production lines. In each locality this nursery school program is sponsored by state and local educational authorities.

I should like to say here, that while many mothers of young children are entering the war industries from a sense of patriotic duty and others from necessity, some mothers might render a more patriotic service by remaining home with their children, especially in areas where adequate nursery schools are not available.

What about children from 6 to 12 with mothers who work? When school begins in September, there might be a longer day with the added time devoted to supervised study and play. Yet this would mean excessive hours for the already over-burdened teacher.

You probably read the press report that some child care experts of England recently have said that the ten-year-old child is the one most ready to drift into delinquency. The PTA, church and school might well consider the proper care of the child from 6 to 12, especially if his mother is employed.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Would you pay a child for helping about the home?

A. As a rule I would not. However, those parents who do and are sure they are getting good results should hesitate to change.

TODAY'S VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

PROTECTING FRUIT TREES

In many sections of the country mice and rabbits cause considerable injury to the bark of young fruit trees.

It is not too early to start planning to outwit them this winter.

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph an easy method is to wrap the trunks with strips of roofing paper, tied into position with grape twine. This paper can be saved and used year after year. When placing these protectors, push them down into the soil to keep out the mice which will otherwise go under if it is left off the soil.

Burlap, tar paper, wire screens and wood protectors can also be used.

Another method of protecting trees is to use a repellent. This is painted or sprayed on the trees. It consists of sulfonated oil made by heating linseed oil to 390 degrees Fahrenheit. Place it out of doors and sift into it flowers of sulphur, stirring continually. Proportions are nine parts oil to one part of sulphur by weight.

Nursing Hardships Are Explained by Father Kelly

Allegany Hospital Seniors Receive Diplomas in St. Patrick's Church

The idea of graduation and what the diploma means in terms of the mental and physical hardships and sacrifices on the part of the nurse and her parents, was stressed by the Rev. William Kelly, D. D. Westminster, speaking at the graduation exercises held for the 1942 Senior class of the Allegany Hospital School of Nursing last evening in St. Patrick's Catholic church.

The best example of this, he said, was the student caring for an invalid all day and sitting down to study at night, and summarized it in the spirit of honor and joy which naturally surrounds graduation.

Father Kelly explained the general work of the nurse in the world today and stressed the fact that though the women are considered the weaker sex, yet amid trouble and strife of a confused world men make bombs and bullets and rain death upon cities and countries, while women go forth — these women the nurses — to alleviate suffering of mankind.

Hope for Future

"So tonight," he declared, "there is joy and happiness as well as hope for the future, yet also sorrow ahead and from that sorrow there will come joy." This thought he showed was prompted by the fact that already many of their predecessors have donned the uniform and are sacrificing self in the service of their country in all corners of the globe.

He urged them to look upon this example as a help as well as the thought of their teachers and instructors, the Sisters of Charity. He also reminded them that what the Sisters are doing today in sheltered hospitals and unprotected battlefields, they have been doing for years and should be for their edification and encouragement.

In closing he congratulated the graduates and their parents and extended his best wishes to them, saying that while there is a thought of sorrow and sadness in the world today, there is also a note of joy.

The Rev. Father Iraeneus, O. F. M. Cap. awarded the diplomas and the Rev. Albert Hardesty presented the class.

List of Graduates

Following the exercises the Rev. Joseph Lane, Mt. Savage celebrated solemn benediction with the Rev. Francis J. McKeown as deacon and the Rev. Father Peter, O. F. M. Cap. as sub-deacon; the Rev. Father Luke, O. F. M. Cap. was master of ceremonies; and the Rev. Robert Kilgannon, Ridgeley, W. Va., was in the sanctuary.

The graduates were Miss Frances Rita Blocker, Miss Opal K. Bonner, Miss Reva Artenchia Bonner, Miss Martha Ann Clymer, Miss Nellie Clara Johnson, Miss Eleanor Anna Kiffner, Miss Cynthia LaVerne Krause, Miss Nancy Jane Leo, Miss Margaret Louise Magruder, Miss Dorothy Virginia Moore, Miss Mary Elizabeth Rice, Miss Helen DeVore Romesberg, Miss Anna Marie Shaffer, Miss Grace Eleanor Shaffer, Miss Anna Beryl Skidmore and Miss Gladys Madeleine Trotz.

A guard of honor was formed by the entire student body in uniform.

Following the exercises the Alumnae Senior dance was held at Clary Club with music by Jay Van's orchestra.

Kinds of Goiters and Their Causes Discussed by Dr. Logan Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
What does it mean if the thyroid gland swells up? A swollen thyroid gland is called a goiter. When we examine goiters that have been removed at operation under the microscope we see a number of different kinds of changes.

The simplest kind of goiter is the one found in the so-called goiter regions. It is well known that in some regions a large proportion of the young adult population have enlargement of the thyroid. Switzerland is such a region and in North America around the Great Lakes district.

The cause of this relationship has been quite thoroughly worked out. The secretion of the thyroid gland is quite a complicated chemical structure, but it contains a large amount of iodine. Without iodine the gland cannot form this secretion at all.

Sources of Iodine

In most parts of the world there is plenty of iodine in the soil. This gets into the drinking water, into vegetables and edible fruit, into cow's milk, etc., so that the human organism has plenty for its needs. The Texan, for instance, gets fifteen times as much iodine in his food and water as the Michigander. So the thyroid in people who live in iodine-poor regions increases in the number of its cells so that every bit of iodine can be picked out of the blood.

This sort of goiter can be cured by giving iodine artificially in the form of iodine salt—sodium iodide. Only a very little need be taken—a few grains for ten days spring and fall is sufficient to keep the body in equilibrium. Obviously these goiters are beneficial and not harmful and should not be removed.

None of the other forms of goiter are nearly so well understood as this simple physiological enlargement of the thyroid.

Active and Non-Active

We can for convenience divide them into active and non-active varieties. Some of them, even though they attain great size, appear to elaborate no secretion that is absorbed into the blood stream, at least none that does any harm. They do not increase the basal metabolism. These are the colloid goiters and seem to be simply cysts of sluggish growth.

Another form produces a secretion that is absorbed and causes very disagreeable symptoms—protrusion of the eyes, nervous tremor, blunting of the muscles, fast pulse, loss of weight, a sense of apprehension, sweating, warmth of the skin, and often a few degrees of fever.

There is an increase in the basal metabolic rate (the basal metabolism was explained in the article yesterday) indicating great activity of the thyroid gland.

The treatment now most frequently consists in surgical removal of the over-active thyroid gland. That is a perfectly logical procedure and in most instances the results are excellent. But there are all varieties of the disease and gradations in severity, and no condition needs more urgently the advice and judgment of a wise doctor that a goiter.

Questions and Answers

Constant Reader: What is calcium pantothenate and is it safe to take it without a doctor's prescription?

Answer: This is the calcium salt of pantothenic acid, part of the vitamin B complex. It has not been demonstrated that it has any action on human beings. It would be pretty hard for you not to get it whether or not on doctor's advice if you eat three square meals a day. It was named pantothenic because it is in nearly every food in nature: yeast, rice, cereals, beef, fish, eggs, milk, carrots, onions, peas and beans and particularly rich in calcium pantothenate.

The cost incurred in the flow of consumption commodities through distributive channels constitutes a substantial portion of their final cost, according to the department of Commerce.

About 1,500,000 British men and women are engaged in civilian defense work and more than 4,500,000 in the fire guard.

Mark's Wife

by MARIE BLIZARD

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER THIRTY ONE

HIS PIPE had gone out and thunder rumbled in the sky. Tom Kilcrae got up, struck the bowl of his pipe against his heel and went into the house.

His footsteps echoed, even on the soft carpeted stairs, as he went up and into his own room on the east side. The door of Claire's room across the hall had been closed for two months.

Reynolds had turned down his bed. The lamp on his bedside table was lighted. There was a glass of milk, a plate of fruit and the novel he was reading beside it.

He showered quickly, got into pajamas and lay on the bed. Reaching for cigarettes and his book, his hand hovered over the telephone. He wondered what Claire would say if he rang her up and told her he was lonesome. His hand hesitated and then moved on to the book.

The storm came nearer, tearing the sky apart and lighting the countryside with dazzling flashes and filling the air with the terrible echo of thunder. It spent its fury with lashing rain that beat against the trees and the walls of the house, running over the window panes with the sound of angry rivers. Then it passed on, leaving behind it a gentle patter of falling drops, steady and low and conciliatory as a penitent voice. It lulled Tom Kilcrae to sleep, from which he was startled by the sharp ringing of the telephone beside him.

When he heard Claire's voice at the other end, he thought for a moment that he was dreaming, that this was the sub-conscious result of his last waking thought.

It was Claire and she was saying, "I tried to reach you earlier."

He was eager to explain, telling her, "I was only on the ter—"

"It doesn't matter," she answered, hurrying on with her quick, impatient voice. "I only called to tell you that Pam is on her way to you. She left with the Tommisons by motor this afternoon. She ought to be there by tomorrow afternoon."

"That's great!"

Claire's voice denied it. "I don't know what's come over her, wanting to go home now when things are getting exciting here."

He said rather flatly, "Then you're having a good time?"

Did he imagine it? Or did Claire seem to hesitate a moment? Yes, he had imagined it, he thought, when she said, "Fine. The usual thing . . . You'll be up next month?"

Next month it would be September.

The trees would have begun to turn. The woods would be fragrant, and the streams filled with fish.

Once he'd had an idea that Claire would like to be with him in such a place. He could tell her that now, perhaps, if she'd say that she hoped he would come. He waited.

In the little silence, Claire caught her underlip between her teeth, waiting, hoping to hear him say that of course he was planning to come. The waiting seconds seemed to be minutes long, so she threw in an inducement, saying, "You can get away the last fortnight in September, I know you'll enjoy it. The Frisbees are going to be here. You like Joe."

"Yeah, I like Joe," he said dryly.

"I'll see what I can do."

The operator cut in to say that three minutes were up.

"Never mind, operator . . . Well, is there anything else, Tom?"

"Not unless I can do anything for you here."

"Nothing, thanks . . . I guess it's pretty dull, isn't it?"

"Not at all," he assured her with a heartiness he didn't feel. "Haven't been doing much. Got an extra inch around the waist. Get it off with some tennis, now Pam's coming back."

"You missed . . . her?"

"Sure did. Guess you and Pam staying home this year kind of spoiled me—er—Claire—"

"Yes?" she said eagerly.

He thought, If I said, "I miss you, too," she'd say, "Don't be sentimental."

So he said, "Does the youngster sound anything about that Italian beau of hers?"

Claire caught her breath, and when she recovered it, her breath was short with anxiety, making her voice sound sharp.

"No. Why? Why do you ask that?"

"I just wondered why she was so anxious to come back here."

Claire put her hand over the mouthpiece for a moment. PAMELA WOULDN'T! Pamela wouldn't tell her father now! She'd been making up to Pam all summer, trying to establish a new relationship with her. After this, she'd never be such a fool again. If Tom would never leave . . .

Did you say something, Claire?"

Claire's voice was tired, taut.

She said, "YOU might ask her why she prefers being there to being here . . . She's more like you than me, Tom . . . Maybe that's one of the reasons why I don't understand her."

He was thinking that over when she said abruptly, "Goodnight."

He lay there for a little while, smoking, thinking. Then he got up and changed from pajamas to slacks, shirt and an old pair of tennis shoes and let himself out the front door into the rain-washed night.

He walked until he was too tired to think anymore and rode back to Stormwold on the milk truck with Sam Johnson, who told him why there wasn't a chance we'd ever have to fight Hitler.

The night's storm had been good for the hot, thirsty earth. The flowers, turned up to the early morning sun, had nice clean faces, and the grass, too, was green and clean again.

The sun had not yet dried the dew and raindrops on the fairy spider-webs that clustered and diamon-d-pointed the spears of grass.

Overhead, the sky was a ceiling of cloudless blue and the leaves in the trees moved gently in a breeze from the east. It would be a good day, warm but not still and breathless, as it had been all week.

Tony had promised her it would be just such a day.

"You'll see," he said. "It'll be the perfect day."

"I've got things fixed with Higher Powers. We've been disappointed too many times.

Five weeks of having my plans disarranged because Mrs. Cronin can't handle all the infants in your nursery or because I get accident cases, have got me to the point where I won't stand any more."

That's what Tony had said on the telephone the night before.

There had been a confident boyish ring in his voice and something suppressed, happy and promising that made her think he had one of his surprises up his sleeve.

Barbara bent over the tomato bushes and picked four fat, ripe ones and put them in her basket.

Tony liked to eat them as if they were fruit, and never failed to tell her that's what they are. "Love apples," he said.

"I just wondered why she was so anxious to come back here."

JAP ZERO PLANES ARE ALL OF THE 1940 CROP

By LIEUT. JOHN M. JENKS
(Condensed From Army Air Forces News Letter)

Wide World Features

Japan's "How To Fool The Enemy" department must have stayed up nights working on its wacky system of aircraft designation. But once you have the key, the great Zero mystery folds up like a parachute.

The so-called Zero is generally described as a fast, highly maneuverable fighter plane. Matter of fact, it is one of the best operational planes in the world. Actually, there is no single Japanese plane with the exclusive designation of Zero. Every Jap plane of every type placed in service during 1940 is a Zero, both army and navy ships.

It carries one 20-millimeter cannon and a 30-caliber machine gun in each wing and a pair of 30-caliber machine guns mounted to fire through the propeller.

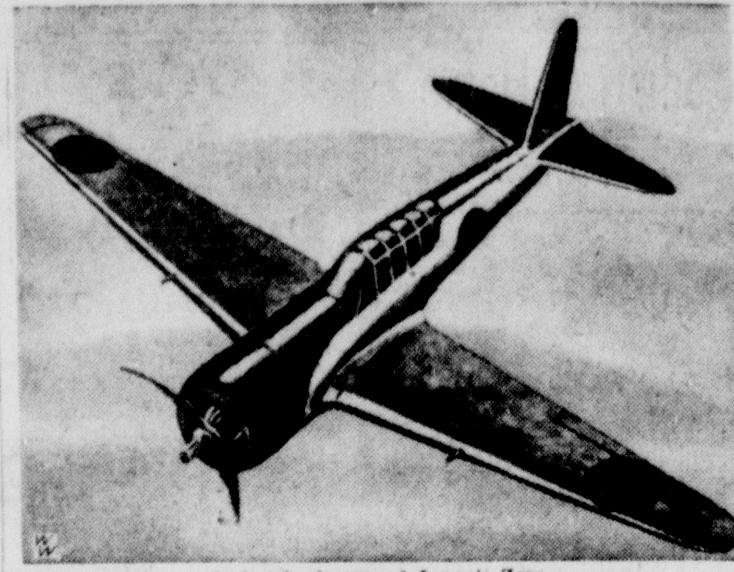

Early models of the Zero lacked pilot armor and were extremely vulnerable to machine gun fire. Later Zeros carry some pilot armor but offer much less protection for the pilot than standard American pursuits. The Zero carries an auxiliary fuel tank slung under the fuselage which may be dropped when empty. This adds about 500 miles to its normal cruising range of 1,500 miles.

Plane Earns Respect
One of the United Nations' leading authorities on the navy Zero is Lieut.-Col. Boyd D. (Buzz) Wagner of the U. S. Army Air Force. He describes the Zero as follows:

"It's not a wonder plane, but it has the respect of all our pilots. The Zero's wings and fuselage are made in one piece, which means the Japs can't change wings if they are damaged, but must replace the whole job. The system has an advantage in less weight and speed of manufacture if the Japs can make enough for replacements, which I doubt. I doubt if even we could with that system."

The landing gear folds completely into the fuselage, creating no additional drag, and the plane is entirely flush-riveted with only a few drag-creating protuberances. The cockpit is roomy and comfortable.

A sketch closeup of Japan's Zero

Armament is controlled by a lever on top of the throttle which permits the pilot to fire either cannon or machine guns or both."

Capable of High Speeds

The Zero is credited with a top speed of well over 300 miles per hour and does pretty well up to 30,000 feet. It can dive as steeply as AAF fighters but has trouble pulling out as rapidly. It has out-climbed AAF pursuits, however, and a favorite maneuver in the early days of the war was for a Zero to allow an enemy pursuit to get on its tail and then go into a steep climb, flip over in a sharp loop and come out on the tail of its opponent. The Zero's cannon have not proved effective against other fighters but have caused considerable damage to heavy bombers.

AAF fighters have an advantage over Zeros in their sturdier construction, pilot armor, leakproof tanks and heavier armament, 50-caliber machine guns and 37-millimeter cannon.

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 10—H. Cliff Hamilton, Charleston, assistant supervisor of rural schools of West Virginia, who has been on tour of the state checking the teacher shortage situation, spent part of the day with County Superintendent H. L. Idleman, Keyser.

Hamilton expressed pleasure with the start the schools of Mineral county are making. With few exceptions all teaching positions in the county are filled and prospects are good for the few vacancies to be filled soon, Idleman told him.

Before coming to Keyser, Hamilton spent some time in Grant, Hardy and Hampshire counties, attending a county teachers conference in Romney Wednesday evening.

CUMBERLAND'S SCRAP METAL DRIVE

SUNDAY... SEPTEMBER 13th... STARTING at 1 P. M.

Maybe you forgive yourself for being lazy, and putting off a search of your home and neighborhood in order to gather together every available bit of scrap. Maybe you haven't stopped to think that by HOARDING the metals that should be turned into bullets, guns, tanks, planes and other fighting equipment—you're helping the enemy. For every bullet we don't turn out, an Axis bullet gets a chance to kill another American boy. For every gun you keep from production, there's a Fascist gun to take aim at your own liberty. For every tank and plane and ship that's slowed down in production because of a shortage of materials, there's an enemy tank, plane or ship to blow up one belonging to the United Nations. How about it, folks? Will you give America a helping hand?... Will you start in right now looking for scrap metal and rubber of all kinds?... Will you be among those citizens who are ready and eager to throw their Scrap into the fight and Junk the Axis quickly and completely.

IMPORTANT!

If you have a load of scrap metal too big for you to handle... or if you know of any substantial amount of scrap metal or rubber that can be salvaged please call SCRAP METAL SALVAGE HEADQUARTERS and we'll arrange to pick it up. JUST 'PHONE

Courageous Girl To Wed Soldier; Had Been Jilted

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX. Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Here's the story of a girl with plenty of courage. Declining to consider a broken engagement as a life-wrecking calamity, she picked up the pieces and kept right on.

"Two years ago I was one of those girls who wrote to you from Heartbreak House," writes "Prospective Bride." "Instead of sympathizing with me, your personal answer to my letter was a much-needed dash of cold water on my head."

"I'm not going into that old affair here, but I had been treated abominably, rejected with cold deliberation. You told me to burn, give away or send to the second-hand store the dress I expected to be married in, not to leave it around or try to wear it, for it would be full of bitter reminder," she continues.

Excels at Dancing

"You told me to get new and attractive clothes, to take lessons in ballroom dancing at the best school my pocket-book could afford. Also, not to give up my job as secretary-stenographer but to stick it out even if everyone in the organization knew I'd been jilted."

"But let me say that if everyone knew, they were all lovely to me. Young men who hadn't shown a bit of interest in me before invited me to dine, took me to the movies. No, they didn't make love. They just wanted to show they thought me a good sport; two became good pals. The girls in my division were simply grand. They invited me to their homes, got up week-end trips, and one of them actually taught me to dance.

"I went in for every form of outdoor life I could possibly manage and I had grown so proficient in dancing that I offered myself as an instructor at one of the nearby camps.

Meets Her Fate

"And here, dear lady, is where I met my fate. The officers had Saturday night dances, and he, saying his dancing was rusty, asked for a lesson. He's a first lieutenant in the army, and I can't begin to tell you what a splendid fellow he is.

"That crawling worm over whom I broke my heart only two years ago seems funny-paper stuff to me now.

"To make a long story short, we're going to be married in six weeks' time so that we can have a little honeymooning if he goes overseas.

"I hope you'll print this letter, so that any girl who's had my experience will not go around moping and moaning, but will pick up the pieces of her life, fill it with interesting things and go on. And I thank you heartily, Miss Fairfax, for not sympathizing with me when I wrote you from Heartbreak House."

the letter concludes.

Next Door Interference

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We're buying our own home, as is, unfortunately, our next-door neighbor. I'll not go into this neighbor's past or present. Suffice to say that my husband and I were happily married until she began making excuses to invite him over. She's married and has a mysterious "gentleman friend" who calls when her husband is out. I wouldn't like to lose the payments we made on our house, but anything would be preferable to this nerve-wracking existence.

HOME BODY

You are confronted with two difficult alternatives. You would not, of course, wish to give up the payments you have already made on the house, unless you have some sort of arrangement which would entitle you to rent the house and move elsewhere. And while it's childish to have an outright quarrel with a neighbor, the next best thing you can do is to completely break off relations with this person.

Your husband if he's a sensible man isn't going to get mixed up with a woman already provided with a husband and a "gentleman friend." That sort of thing is apt to prove to be expensive on all counts.

Family "Chatterbugs"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Reading an article of yours about mothers-in-law has prompted me to write to you not only about my mother-in-law but also about my daughters, other daughters-in-law, nieces, and even some. My husband is a splendid fellow, 27 years of age, but he was so tangled up in his mother's apron-strings that he never had a chance to grow up.

He is in the Army now, but will probably go overseas, meanwhile the "chatterbugs" are all busy disposing of me. I'm never consulted about what I'm to do when my husband is away. If I take a job, it must be the job they want me to have. At first I confided my woes to a couple of sisters-in-law but they made as much trouble as the others. If I didn't love my husband so much, I'd divorce him.

REPENT.

Wouldn't you be cutting off your nose to spite your face, to use a homely figure of speech, if you divorced your husband because his women folk are "chatterbugs"? The great lesson for you to learn is not to confide in any of them. Keep your own counsel. If you decide to work while your husband is away, you're certainly entitled to pick out your job. Meanwhile, put a padlock on your mouth. Be polite, but don't confide.

Question for Husband

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We've been married 13 years and have three children. My husband has been employed at the same job for the past fifteen years. Now he has a chance at a much better paying job and he doesn't know whether to take it or not. The conditions of the new employment are such as he's wanted to work in all his life. Yet we're both afraid it would be only for the duration.

Would it be unwise to give up an old job for a new one which, while paying more, wouldn't last?

WORRIED.

Many letters on this very question have come to this column. Boiled down to "yes" and "no," it's a question for individuals themselves to answer.

If people own their own homes, they can afford to take a job in another, after the duration. On the other hand, if the head of the family has nothing but for a employment, even though it pays better pay. If a man is apt at his work, such a job is likely to lead rainy day and he hasn't plenty of better.

St. Louis Gains Game by 5 to 1 Victory

Defeat Giants
On Four-Hitter
Hurled by Pollet

Proper Play "Backfires"
as Ott Throws to Unprotected Sack

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP) — With the help of a "crossball" error charged against a fielder for doing the right thing, the St. Louis Cardinals clouted the Giants 5 to 1 today to breathe even more fiercely down the necks of the Dodgers in the roaring National League pennant race.

With Brooklyn losing to Chicago, the Cards moved up to within two games of the pace-setters as young Howie Pollet, the southpaw, served up a four-hitter to the Giants.

Cards Are Confident

The St. Louis lads were more confident than ever tonight that they'd make up the difference between them and the top in the two game series with the Dodgers tomorrow and Saturday.

Today's outing enabled them to get in some good preliminary licks. They pushed over three runs on Hal Schumacher in the first inning, largely through that unusual "error," added another on a pair of hits in the fifth and wound up their run-making when Terry Moore smashed his fifth homer of the year on the left field roof in the eighth.

Meantime, Pollet was having the time of his life chalking up his sixth victory of the year. From the first frame, when the New Yorkers connected for two of their safeties, until Mel Ott poked his twenty-seventh round-tripper in the seventh, not a man got on base.

In the first inning Jimmy Brown walked and Terry Moore scratched a hit down the third base line. Enos Slaughter then poked a single into right scoring Brown.

Proper Play "Backfires"

Ott fielded the ball and threw to third—the proper play with two runners on base. However, third-sacker Bartell had run in to back up any play at the plate, and the bag was unprotected, so Ott's heavy roll all the way to the box seats, and Moore came home and Slaughter went all the way to third.

The mis-play had to be charged against Mel for throwing to an open bag, although it was no fault of his that neither Bartell nor shortstop Bill Jurges covered the bag.

Later Slaughter came home on Walker Cooper's fly, to finish up the rally that gave the Cards enough to win right there.

Billy Conn Says Louis
Is a "Dead Pigeon"

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10 (AP) — Private Billy Conn, starting workups for his Oct. 12 title bout with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, said today Louis was "a dead pigeon" already.

The former light heavyweight champion, on furlough from the army, began his fight preparations today. After another workout tomorrow, he will go to New York to attend the Army-East New York Giants football game Saturday. Later, he will go to a permanent training camp on Promoter Mike Jacob's property at Rumson, N. J. Conn, who was knocked out in his first match with Sgt. Louis last year, said up his prospects this way:

"I think Joe's ready to be taken by the first good man who comes along. None of them—not even the best—goes on forever. In my book he's a dead pigeon."

Western Maryland
Gridders Are Sent Through Workouts

WESTMINSTER, Md., Sept. 10 (AP) — Western Maryland college's football team went through two tough workouts here today, including the first scrimmage of the season.

During the morning session, Ter-mentor Leroy Byham concentrated on blocking and tackling in addition to regular conditioning drills, but in the afternoon actual contact work began.

Manny Kaplan and Tom Terry two veterans, showed up well, as was expected, while Henry Ferris and Bob Frazer, both freshmen showed flashes of skill in the scrimage. All four are backs.

Byham continued to shift positions of his men. Most notable of the changes made at today's sessions were those which sent Sip Jensen to tackle and Allan Cohen to guard the positions they held down two years ago.

Divide Doubleheader after Lyons Wins the First Game

CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (AP) —

Bruce Campbell's pinch single with the bases filled in the eighth inning, driving in two runs, gave Washington's Senators a 5-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the electric light portion of their "twilight" doubleheader tonight after Ted Lyons turned in his thirteenth victory for the Chicagoans in the first game, 7-1.

Fritz Zivic Easily Defeats Red Cochran

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP) —

Fritz Zivic tonight gave Red Cochran the beating he's been promising him for a year and easily won a ten round decision over the welterweight champion in Madison Square Garden in a bout that was a non-title tussle by a mere quarter of a pound. Zivic weighed 147½; Cochran 146.

Finally getting the revenge for which he's been "eating his heart out" ever since the Jersey red-head took the 147 pound crown from him a year ago last July, Fritzie handed red a gaudy boxing lesson, puffed his face up with knife-like punches and won going away in a rough and tumble brawl that had a near-full house hopping to its feet time after time.

On the Associated Press score card, the flat-nosed Pittsburgh beauty won eight rounds against two for Freddie the Red, who came out of the navy to take on this bout for the benefit of the USO and goes from here directly to active sea duty.

Two rounds were taken away from Cochran by Referee Arthur Donovan for fouls, but one of these Fritzie won by a mile, anyway.

Maintaining his record of being one of the Garden's best "meal tickets" — although Cochran undoubtedly helped, too—Fritzie drew a crowd of 13,259 customers into the place. They contributed to a gross gate of $30,817.

Cochran, who sprang the fistic upset of 1941 by winning the title from Zivic the last time, relied almost entirely on a wild-swinging body attack tonight. It did some good through the first five rounds, but from the sixth to the finish, Zivic had more fun than a kid at the circus bawling away at Freddie's head almost at will.

Cincinnati Wins
Over Braves 6-2

Starr's Two-Hitter Wasted
in Second Game as Contest Is Called

BOSTON, Sept. 10 (AP) —

The Cincinnati Reds were given two splendid pitching performances by Paul Derringer and Ray Starr today but they netted only one victory in their final appearance of the season against the Boston Braves. Derringer was credited with a 6-2 win in the opener but Starr's two-hitter was wasted because the Reds had to have the scoreless nightcap called at the end of the ninth to board a train for Philadelphia.

The Reds clinched the opener against Manny Salvo in the sixth when Frank McCormick doubled and scored on Ray Lamanno's single. Then they insured it with a two-run rally against the Boston righthander in the seventh.

Starr was twice betrayed by his teammates. They filled the bases with none out against Johnny Sain in both the fourth and fifth innings, only to have the Braves silence their threats with double plays. The best four Reds could do with the bases choked was a double to the seventh.

The Dodgers understand this situation perfectly now. Pete Reiser's injury hasn't helped them a bit. Their pitching isn't any too good. And the feeling is none too comfortable when hostile footsteps that once were faint and far away are nowounding on their heels.

The Dodgers remain dead game, but they have a fast, hustling dead-game club to handle in the Cardinals and a still longer stretch.

These Clinched Pennants

The somewhat harassed Dodgers, now facing a Cardinal entanglement, only have to turn back a few pages to understand that pennant races are not over until the full returns are in.

Through their advantage on the losing side and the home schedule they face, they are still the favored people. But so were the Giants in 1908 until the Phillies turned them upside down. The Giants were also seven games ahead around Labor day when Dizzy Dean and the Frankie Frisch Cardinals blew away this lead in 1934.

The Cubs once had a pennant won until they stumbled through the last week, and the Pirates were already reaching for their world series checks when the Cubs set them aside in the last few days.

The Big Show

The Dodger-Cardinal battle on Saturday, plus the shaky lure of the mutuels at Aqueduct, will possibly draw some 70,000 citizens from circulation.

But in the neighborhood of 10,000 people there is still no reason why there shouldn't be 55,000 or 60,000 left who would like to see a great football game between Army and the New York Giants, plus a close-up inspection of Joe Louis and Billy Conn who will be among those present.

I've seen Los Angeles draw 90,000 to a Rose Bowl game and 65,000 to Santa Anita on the same afternoon.

The highly-colorful spectacle of the Giant defense trying to stop Norman Standlee and others, plus the Army defense attempting to collar Tuffy Leemans and a few mates, will be worth far more than any admission price, apart from the War Fund help.

The football game is sure to be a thriller, for both teams are desperately anxious to win. There could be no other way between teams coached by Bob Neyland and Steve Owen, two entries from Texas and Oklahoma, where they go all out.

The big crowd at the Polo Grounds will have its first inspection of Louis and Conn.

Cubs Romp Over Dodgers 10-2

Defeat Is Costly
As St. Louis Moves
Up Another Notch

Chicago Scores Three Runs
in Each of First Two Innings

By JUDSON BAILEY
BROOKLYN, Sept. 10 (AP)—The leaguered Brooklyn Dodgers had their minds so full of the series starting tomorrow with the St. Louis Cardinals that they overlooked the necessity of beating the Chicago
Cubs today.

Consequently the Cubs romped to a 10 to 2 decision that was as costly as it was humiliating since the Cards captured a 5 to 1 verdict over the New York Giants and moved within two games of the National League leaders.

While a crowd of 6,271 looked on the Cubs took charge of the contest with three runs in each of the first two innings and old Lou War-ske never let the game get away from him.

Kirby Higbe started for Brooklyn.
He walked the first man he faced.
Stan Hack and Phil Cavarretta followed with a run-scoring double to left center. Bill Nicholson rounded out and Cavarretta advanced to third. When Higbe got a count of two balls and one strike on Dom Dilessandro, time was called by Chicago to insert runner for Cavarretta and Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers decided this was as good a time as any to change pitchers.

Hugh Casey came in and served singles to Lou Novikoff, Chico Hernandez and Lou Stringer for two more runs before ending the inning.
After fanning Warneke to open the second, he walked Hack and gave a single to Jimmie Foxx—bringing in Lefty French, who immediately hit Nicholson with a pitch to load the bases. All runners scored as Dilessandro hit a long fly for one and Novikoff tripled for two.

French was the victim of Nicholson's twentieth home run in the fourth and of a run in the eighth when Hernandez singled, was sacrificed to second and raced home on a double by Len Merullo.

Finally Johnny Allen came on the scene in the ninth and gave two more runs.

A two-run homer by Arky Vauman in the third accounted for all Brooklyn's scoring.

Philadelphia Wins Over Pirates 2 to 1

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10 (AP)—
The Phils came from behind today to snap a 13-game losing streak with a 2-1 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates in an 11-inning contest. The weather broke up the second game of the scheduled doubleheader after three and a half innings of play.

Danny Litwhiler walloped a mighty center field triple in the eleventh frame to score Ron Nor-they from first base and give pitcher Tommy Hughes his tenth victory of the season.

The Pirates took a 1-0 lead in the seventh on catcher Babe Phelps home run but the Phils came back in the ninth to push across a single marker. However, they couldn't get over the winning run while the bases were loaded.

Both Pirate Manager Frankie Frisch and Third Baseman Bob Elliott were banished by Umpire
George Magerkurth for arguing too warmly over a decision in the tenth inning.

Colonial's Coach Expect To Win A "Few" Grid Games

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—
Coach Johnny Baker of the George Washington Colonials, who had been hoping to break even this football season, told reporters today his mostly-sophomore team might do no better than win a "couple of of games."

Even this, his interviewers agreed, would be better than G-W's record of last year, when it won its opening game against Mount St. Mary's was tied in one, and lost all the others.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE
WHEN THERE is the slightest chance remaining to make your contract, it pays to exert yourself to the utmost to preserve that chance. In the case of a No Trump contract, that means cashing any additional sure trick or tricks in sight before giving the defenders the lead, if you are certain they can take the remainder of the tricks.

Imagine the effrontery of North and South in going on to 3-No Trumps against such bidding by vulnerable opponents. By the very sound of it, you could almost tell that the side was too high, even if all of its cards were rather fortunately located, as they were.

East led the heart 4 to the Q and A, and North promptly went after the spades, feeling sure that the heart J would constitute another stopper of that suit, as it did. The spade Q was covered by East, the A winning. The diamond Q then went to the A, and West returned the heart 3 to the K. A third heart from East cleared the suit, putting dummy in with the J. Three more spades were cashed, ending in the South hand, and then the diamond 8 was led to the 9. That made a total of seven tricks for the declarer, four in spades, two in hearts and one in diamonds. If South now had held another diamond and had the lead in his own hand, he could have taken another marked finesse for two more diamond tricks, giving him his contract. But that was not the case. Only one more trick was in sight, with the diamond K. If the declarer cashed it, he would be down only one.

Hating to be set, as we all do, he reflected that, if West would lead a diamond to him, it would give him two diamond tricks. But he did not stop to think of East having two set-up hearts, with the club A and K out, at least one of which East was sure to hold. So he led the club 10 from his own hand, and the defenders took the last four tricks, setting him two and costing him 200 points unnecessarily.

Joseph Griffin Leads Seaber By Single Vote

Soldier Vote May Decide Democratic Central Committee Race

Miller Leads Roulette by 996 Votes; 29 Per Cent Go to the Polls

Official returns of the primary election contest of Tuesday, tabulated yesterday by the board of election supervisors show Joseph H. Griffin, of Cumberland, leading by a single vote over Harry W. Seaber, of Westernport, in the battle for the nomination for seventh place in the Democratic State Central committee.

The final official figures in this interesting contest were:

Joseph A. Griffin 1,413
Harry W. Seaber 1,412

The winner, however, will be unknown until absentee ballots forwarded to seven Allegany county Democrats in the armed services are returned by the Secretary of State and counted by the board of election supervisors at the court house on Sunday, September 20.

Lawrence A. Hewitt, clerk to the board, said that absentee ballots were sent to eight Republicans and seven Democrats.

Miller Leads Roulette

Official returns also were announced for the Republican contest for nomination for associate judge of the Circuit Court of the Fourth Judicial circuit, which includes the counties of Garrett, Washington and Allegany.

Leo H. Miller, of Hagerstown, led his fellow-townsman, Ellsworth Roulette, by the margin of 996 votes after returns from Allegany's thirty-five precincts were checked by the board.

The final standings:

Leo H. Miller 3,672
Ellsworth Roulette 3,676

Final official returns in the other Democratic and Republican contests in Allegany county will not be available until this evening when the election board is scheduled to complete its canvass of the vote. The board will resume its work at 4 p.m. at the court house.

Hewitt announced that only nineteen per cent, or 3,725 of the 20,288 registered Democrats in Allegany county went to the polls for the primary. On the Republican side, 8,867 out of a total of 25,056 registered voters cast ballots. This turned out to be thirty-nine per cent of GOP registered voters.

29 Per Cent Voted

A check-up also revealed that 12,592, or twenty-nine per cent of the 45,544 registered voters in the county cast their ballots in the thirty-three districts at the primary. It is estimated that approximately 1,500 Allegany countians of voting age are serving in the armed forces and only fifteen requested absentee ballots.

LEO H. MILLER LEADS ROULETTE 49 VOTES IN RACE FOR JUDGE

Unofficial returns in the Fourth Judicial circuit, comprising Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, give Leo H. Miller, of Hagerstown, a forty-nine vote lead over his fellow-townsman Ellsworth Roulette for associate judge.

The complete vote by counties follows:

| | | |
|---------------|-------------|--------------|
| Miller | Roulette | |
| Allegany | 3,672 | 2,676 |
| Garrett | 1,263 | 654 |
| Washington | 1,349 | 2,904 |
| Totals | | 6,283 |

Rep. Ward Leading Roe for Nomination

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10 (UPI)—The complete official count in the first Congressional district gave Rep. David J. Ward a 75-vote margin over State Senator Dudley G. Roe today, an edge which absentee ballots were not expected to overcome.

Ward returned to the lead today when Cecil county, the last to report, gave him 1,504 votes to 1,316 for Roe. Yesterday Roe held the slender lead.

The official count changed some figures in the unofficial tabulation but not enough to give Roe the nomination. The incumbent picked up his biggest edge in Wicomico, his home county, where his plurality over Roe was nearly 1,800 votes.

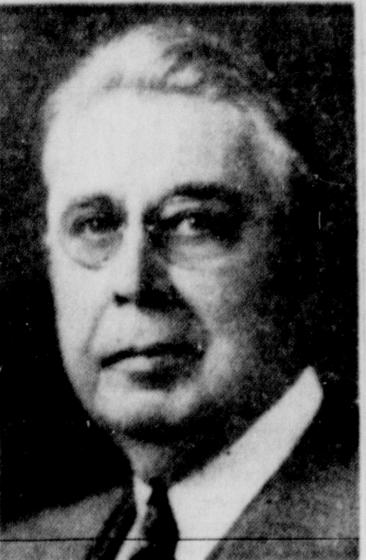

Kent and Queen Anne's both went solidly for Roe. Leon Andrus ran third.

Allegany County Will Have Three Alerts, Blackouts

Col. Barrett Says One Will Be State-wide; Ridgeley Curfew Silenced

Col. Henry S. Barrett, of Baltimore, director of Air Raid Precautions for Maryland, yesterday advised Vincent P. Ingram, civilian defense director of Allegany county, that a state-wide daylight alert and blackout will be held this month in addition to the two alerts and two blackouts scheduled in Allegany county.

Curfew Discontinued

Paul K. Morgan, mayor of Ridgeley, W. Va., announced yesterday that the 9 p.m. "curfew," sounded each day by the fire whistle, has been discontinued for the duration of the war so as not to be confused with air raid alarm signals. The Ridgeley whistle is part of the system set up by civilian defense officials for warnings on alerts and blackouts.

Yesterday the Ridgeley whistle was sounded at 6 p.m. and many persons were under the impression that it was a signal for an "alert." Morgan, however, explained that it was blown for a fire in Ridgeley.

With Our Boys In the Service

A ten-day revival campaign was inaugurated last evening at the Salvation Army hall, 511 Virginia avenue, by Envoy and Mrs. William Reed, of Baltimore, who have been appointed to assist in local work permanently, and will be responsible for the South Cumberland outfit.

Envoy and Mrs. Reed concluded a two weeks' revival campaign Sunday night at the Salvation Army Citadel. The envoy is an earnest preacher and is also assisted by Mrs. Reed, who plays the piano and sings duets with him. They both play the cornet.

The new assistants will furnish a four-room apartment on the second floor of the Outpost building for their living quarters, and believe that this arrangement will be a decided advantage in carrying on the various activities there.

Lt. Martha Galbraith, who has been assisting Brig. and Mrs. Phillips with part of the activities at both places, will now devote more of her time to the work at the citadel, and is being made responsible for the young people's department, which includes Sunday school, life saving guards, young people's legion and band of love.

Eleven Organizations Will Plan Erection of Honor Roll Tablet

Mayor Asks Representatives To Meet September 14 in City Hall

Aviation Cadet C. H. Armstrong, Cumberland, stationed at MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla., for the past five months, has been transferred to the army air force cadet classification center, Santa Anna, Cal., to begin his preliminary training.

A former local pilot, Cadet Armstrong is a graduate of the air corps technical school at Sheppard Field, Tex., and has had several months training as a mechanic on the army's Flying Fortress.

Cadet Armstrong's wife, the former Miss Lillian Kennell, and daughter, Bonnie Jean, reside at 341 Bedford street.

Miss Beatrice Rudiger, 104 Grand avenue, has received word from Tech. Sgt. James K. Conway of his safe arrival, with a group of British soldiers, in Palestine. Sgt. Conway is a tall gunner with the Army Air Corps. Ninety-eight Bomber Command Union Council of the CIO and the Disabled American Veterans.

First steps toward establishing a suitable memorial were taken early in March by the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council as a result of the death of Victor Tambellino, Cumberland youth, killed in action when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor. A resolution passed by the CIO union requested the mayor and council to change the name of Riverside park to Tambellino park as a fitting tribute to the youth who died to protect his country and as a constant reminder to the people of Cumberland of the treachery and viciousness of Hitler and his Axis partners.

At that time, Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, stated that Riverside park was dedicated to the city for public use but was not deeded to the city. In his opinion, legal difficulties would result if any attempt was made to change the name of the park.

"Women are in this war," declared Miss Blanks. "Enemy bombardiers don't make much distinction between men, women and children as targets. Our lives and our liberties are threatened just as much as those of our men. What's more, we want to be in the war—to serve our nation the best way we know how."

"This we can do on the family front. We can do it by helping each other, by doing our routine jobs more efficiently and in less time so that we can give more of our time and energies to winning the war. We've got to see that our men and children are kept in the best of health, that no salvaged scrap lies idle around our homes, that we use substitutes wherever it is possible to release materials and foods to our armed forces and our allies."

She said that all useful information contributed by wives of Allegany County will be made available to readers of this newspaper and to Farm Security Administration families throughout the nation.

"The question of prizes has been discussed," said the supervisor, "and it was generally opposed. Women don't want prizes for their wartime contributions. Whatever they can do to help win the war they want to do."

"Women everywhere have felt that our boys can endure the hardships and risks of combat, if industrial workers can give every ounce of their energy to the war effort and if people everywhere can quickly accept discomforts incidental to winning a war—the least we can do is help one another."

Mayor Conlon is now hopeful that each of the eleven organizations named will send representatives to next Monday's meeting so that plans for the erection of the tablet will get under way.
